

Princeton students, standing behind President and country, drill regularly. They have formed a regiment and, should they be called, will go in one college body instead of among various National Guard regiments.

(Copyright Underwood & Underwood.)

With
"Preparedness"
Measures
in Full
Swing

Miss Margaret M. A. Donahue of Boston, first woman in country to get commercial radio operator's license, offers services to government. Woman radio operators will probably be used to man the shore stations operated by the Navy Department in connection with the power boat and submarine-chasing squadrons.

(Copyright Underwood & Underwood.)

Women man armored motor battery. Miss I. L. Hill and Miss Jean Dean Barnes drove the 1st Armored Motor Battery, N. Y. N. G., through the streets of New York city to show they were capable of handling it. They are willing to drive it for Uncle Sam if needed.

(Copyright, Underwood & Underwood.)

Capt. Frances Grey, Boston society woman, commander of Motor Corps A of Massachusetts Militia, which is composed entirely of women, and has been accepted by the state.

(Copyright, International Film.)

Mrs. Viviane Whittall Adams, wife of Capt. John Q. Adams, with several other women will run a recruiting station on the Common in Boston.

(Copyright Underwood & Underwood.)

Patriotic women seek loyalty pledges. Mrs. V. Bigelow inducing a passerby on a New York street to sign the "loyalty to country and President" pledge. Hundreds of thousands of New Yorkers have already signed.

(Copyright Underwood & Underwood.)

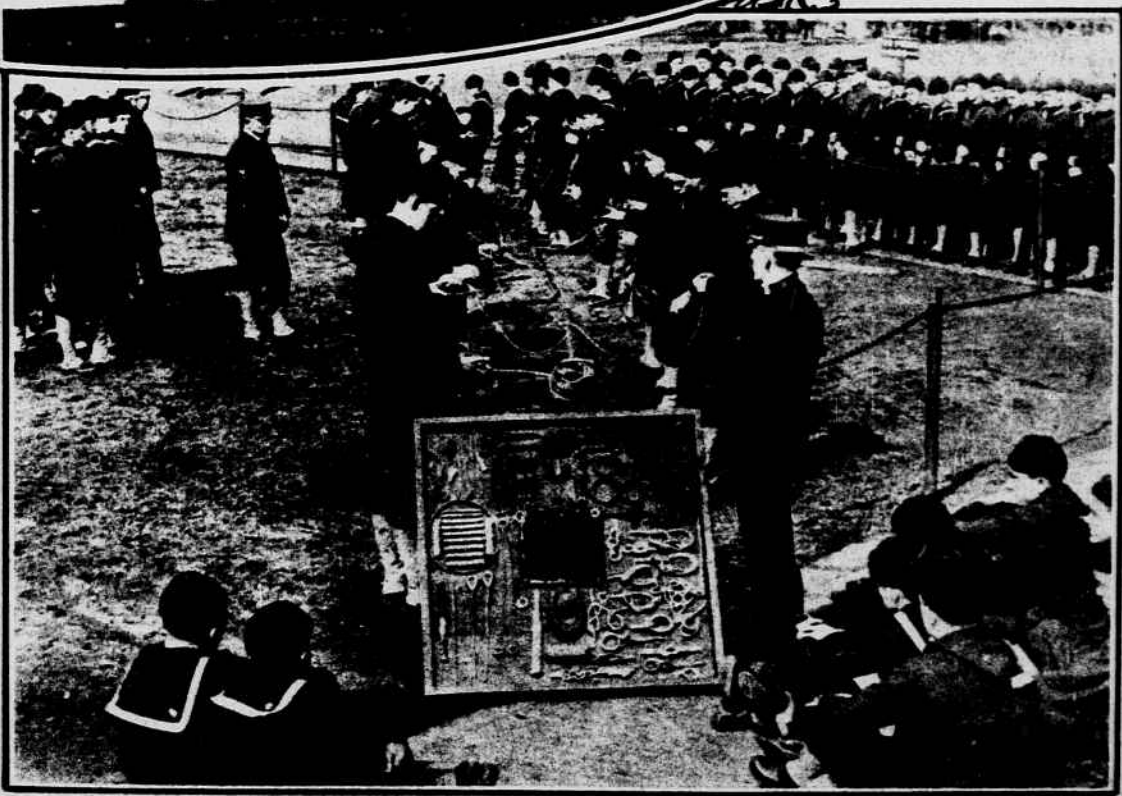

Council of national defense and its advisory board is working night and day to mobilize the military, naval and industrial resources of the country. The council is composed of six cabinet officers, while the advisory board is composed of seven citizens eminent in their respective fields. Seated in this group are: Left to right, Secretary of Agriculture David F. Houston, Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, Secretary of the Interior Franklin K. Lane and Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson. Standing, left to right, Grosvenor B. Clarkson, secretary of the council; Julius Rosenwald, chairman of the committee on supplies; Bernard M. Baruch, in charge of raw materials; Daniel Willard, transportation; Dr. F. H. Martin, medicine and sanitation; Dr. Hollis Godfrey, science and research; Howard Coffin, munitions, and W. S. Gifford, director of the council. Secretary Redfield and Samuel Gompers are members, but were not in the photo.

HARRIS
SWING
COPYRIGHT

Women of the American Women's League for Self-defense drilling on Governors Island, N. Y.

(Copyright, International Film.)

Modern Minute Men of the U. S. S. Georgia learning to tie knots. In 1776 the "Minute Men" of Massachusetts were the first to answer their country's call, and since March 1 the U. S. S. Georgia has recruited 276 men from the Bay state.

(Copyright, International Film.)